

ANNUAL CRIME AWARENESS AND CAMPUS SECURITY POLICIES AND REPORT
For the 15 months ending December 31, 2010
Ann Arbor Campus

Thomas M. Cooley Law School has prepared this report in conformity with its Policy Regarding Emergency Response and Evacuation Procedures. That policy can be found on the Cooley portal at portal.cooley.edu under the Policies tab.

I. Reporting Criminal Action and Emergencies Occurring on Law School Property

A. Scope of Report

For the time period covered by this report, Thomas M. Cooley Law School operated four wholly independent and separate campuses, one each in the cities of Lansing, Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor, and Auburn Hills, Michigan.

This report covers Cooley's branch campus in Ann Arbor, Michigan, at 3475 Plymouth Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48105. But because Cooley did not begin operations at its Ann Arbor campus until September 1, 2009, this report covers only the period from September 1, 2009 through December 31, 2010.

B. Definitions

In this section, as well as throughout the report, the terms Cooley or Law School "property," "premises," or "facilities" shall refer interchangeably to any building or property that Cooley owns or controls (for example, by leasing a building or property from a third party) and which are used by Cooley in direct support of, or in a manner related to, Cooley's educational purposes. The terms include any other building or property that is within or reasonably contiguous to buildings or property that Cooley owns (even if controlled by a third party), that is frequently used by students, and that supports Cooley's institutional purposes.

These terms shall also include all public property, including thoroughfares, streets, sidewalks, and parking facilities, that is within, or immediately adjacent to and accessible from, any property or facilities that Cooley owns or controls.

C. Reporting Procedure

Any life-threatening emergency is to be reported to local authorities by dialing 911. Students, faculty and staff are required to immediately report criminal actions or other emergencies which occur on Law School property to the Building Access Control Officer or Thomas M. Cooley Law School staff, as the case may be. A school official will complete the appropriate incident report form to be delivered to the Chief Operating Officer and others as appropriate.

D. Response to Reports

1. The Law School responds to reports of criminal actions or emergencies, as it deems appropriate under the circumstances. The response may include contacting local law enforcement authorities, the fire department, emergency medical services or other outside entities, notification to the Law School community, and internal investigation and action.
2. The Law School will make timely reports to students, faculty and staff regarding any incidents of murder, manslaughter, arson, sexual offenses (forcible or non-forcible), robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, or motor vehicle theft that have taken place on, or contiguous to, Law School property as reported to the Law School.

II. Security of, and Access to, Law School Facilities

A. Security and Access Policies

1. The Law School generally attempts to limit access to Law School facilities to students, faculty, staff and persons who have a legitimate business or educational purpose for being on the premises. Law School staff or Building Access Control Officers monitor the front entrance of all school-controlled buildings that are used by students. The Law School reserves the right to refuse access to persons acting in a disorderly or disruptive fashion and to request such persons leave the premises. If necessary, Building Access Control Officers or Law School staff will contact local law enforcement authorities to remove unauthorized persons from Law School property or take other appropriate action.
2. Due to the large number of people entering or leaving our buildings at certain times (such as just before or after classes), it is not always possible to ensure that everyone in the buildings satisfies our access criteria. In light of this fact and our urban environment, the Law School expects students, faculty and staff to take appropriate precautions to help ensure personal safety and the safety of others. Each person is responsible for their personal property.

B. Maintenance Considerations

The Law School attempts to maintain its facilities in a manner consistent with the security considerations set forth above.

C. Changes in Policies or Procedures

The Law School reserves the right to change its security and safety policies at any time, with or without notice, at its discretion. Neither this report nor any other communication from Law School personnel, written or oral, is intended to create contractual rights to any security or safety policy or procedure or to security matters generally.

III. Safety and Law Enforcement on School Premises

A. Law School or Building Access Control Officer

The Law School or Building Access Control Officer monitors access to Cooley-controlled buildings used by students. They document emergencies and report incidents to the Chief Operating Officer. While Building Access Control staff generally may not leave their stations unless properly relieved, they will contact the appropriate officials and other employees for assistance in, and investigation of, emergencies.

B. Enforcement Authorities and Liaison with Local Police Agencies

Law School employees or Building Access Control Officers do not carry weapons and cannot make arrests or physically remove trespassers from Law School premises. The local police will be contacted if circumstances warrant an arrest or other law enforcement intervention.

C. Encouraging Reports of Criminal or Threatening Behavior

The Law School encourages students, faculty, and staff to report promptly and accurately any crimes that occur on Law School premises to an employee or Building Access Control Officer and, when appropriate, the local police.

The conduct@cooley.edu email account has been established for reporting school related unethical conduct that reasonably appears to violate the Honor Code. This account is also for reporting criminal or threatening behavior that may violate Cooley's Disciplinary Procedures. Cooley's Honor Code and Disciplinary Procedures are available on the Portal under "Policy".

1. The Law School generally attempts to limit access to Law School facilities to students, faculty, staff and persons who have a legitimate business or educational purpose for being on the premises. Law School staff or Building Access Control Officers monitor the front entrance of all school-controlled buildings that are used by students. The Law School reserves the right to refuse access to persons acting in a disorderly or disruptive fashion and to request such persons leave the premises. In light of this fact and our urban environment, the Law School expects students, faculty and staff to take appropriate precautions to help ensure personal safety and the safety of others. Each person is responsible for their personal property.
