

September's Sarasota and October's Seattle Alumni Luncheons

Graduates and Prospective Students Given a Chance To Meet

Fourteen guests enjoyed an alumni luncheon at the Michael's On East restaurant in Sarasota, Fla., September 18, 2000. Professor Judy Frank (Mundy Class, 1986) hosted the event and brought the attendees up to date with the latest news regarding the law school.

The Sarasota luncheon was not limited just to alumni, as people in the area who had applied to attend Cooley Law School were invited as well. The Alumni Relations Office and the Admissions Office co-sponsored the event, to create a forum where people about to enter law school could get to know our alumni and learn more about the process of legal education. From all reports, both the graduates and the prospective students really enjoyed their time together.

Among the guests at the Florida Luncheon were Jim Collins (Fead Class, 1999), James Link (Cross Class, 2004), Michelle Reddin (Flannigan Class, 1999), Peggy Miller (Bacon Class, 1990), Don McBath (Lawrence Class, 1991) and Douglas Sieb (Marston Class, 1978).

A similar gathering of alums and prospective Cooley students was held October 20 in the Emerald City, otherwise known as Seattle, Wash.

The host for this event was Professor Marj Russell (Chandler Class, 1983). The luncheon was downtown at the Ikon Grill and was attended by 12 guests. Alex Boris (Clark Class, 1979), Megan Goodrick (Montgomery Class, 1992), Melissa Habeck (Rutledge Class, 2000), Jason Hanson (Fead Class, 1999), Katherine Hanson (Fead Class, 1999), David Engle (Montgomery Class, 1992), Robert Green (Williams Class, 1994), John Rodabaugh (Hooker Class, 1993) and Karen Richert (Wilson Class, 2001) comprised the guests from Cooley Law School.

The Alumni Relations Office and the Admissions Office thank Professor Frank and Professor Russell for making the Sarasota and Seattle luncheons such positive experiences for all of the guests.
